3. You must bring your student ID card + and your own card holder / lanyard.

4. Please bring your own stethoscope and a watch with a second hand (no smart watches allowed). You may bring a simple digital watch (see sample picture). We reserve the right to check any digital watches to ensure they do not have smart capabilities. If your watch is found to be more than a simple digital watch, you will not be allowed to take it into the exam. No outside paper is allowed into the exam. You will be allowed to write notes during reading time and note paper will be provided. Notepad paper will be available inside history stations and other stations if required.

You may bring a clear water bottle (see sample images). You will not be allowed to take your bottle into the exam if it does not meet this criteria.

You are not allowed to bring pens to the exam. Pens will be made available to you on the day.

If you think you may require any medication on the day of the exam (e.g. paracetamol)- you must bring it in a clear plastic bag. The assessment team is unable to provide any medications during examinations.

5. You are not allowed to use mobile devices, smart watches, laptops, wireless equipment, etc at the examination. This includes the quarantine periods before or after the OSCE.

THE UNIVERSITY TAKES THIS MATTER VERY SERIOUSLY. The University will treat your possession of a mobile phone or a mobile device during the exam as academic misconduct. This will result in disciplinary action. It may also result in a fail grade for the exam.

6. Bag and mobile devices check-in:

Please note that bags and mobile devices must be checked in before the above arrival times. While every care will be taken to safeguard the bags and devices, the University cannot take responsibility for loss of personal items.

We will ask you to place ALL of your electronic devices e.g., mobile phones, laptops, iPads, smartwatches in a box. The box will be locked and placed in a secure area during the OSCE. All the devices will be returned to students after the OSCE and the quarantine period. Please consider leaving any non-essential devices at home.

7. On arrival at the lecture theatre/clinical skills room/refectory, you will be given:

- a colour dot (Sydney: green, yellow, pink or blue; Melbourne: green or white) labelled with your starting station number. You will need to stick this onto your card holder; and
- sticky labels with your name and ID (you are NOT allowed to write anything on the label sheet).

You will be quarantined for a period lasting up to 1 hour 45 minutes before the exam. You can bring food, drinks, textbooks or paper notes with you to study during this time. Please bring food and drinks that do not require refrigeration as access to fridge will not be available during the quarantine period. You are not allowed to have access to your mobile devices, smart watches, laptops, wireless equipment, etc in the quarantine area as per point 5 above.

Students allocated to Session 1 in Melbourne will be quarantined for a period lasting up to 2 hours AFTER the OSCE.

Session 1 (Mel): POST OSCE quarantine period --- 10:19 am – 11.45 am

8. You will be taken to the appropriate circuit and station to wait for the start of the OSCE exam at around:

- 7.20am (session 1 Melbourne)
- 8:50 am (session 1 Sydney)
- 10.50am (session 2 Melbourne)
- 12:35pm (session 2 Sydney)

9. Each OSCE session will last for 169 minutes. There is a total of 13 stations (9 ‘active’ and 4 ‘rest’ stations).

10. All stations will be clearly marked with their station number and colour-coded. Do not enter a room that does not have your ‘colour’ on it!

11. Follow the station number and arrows and move forward in a clockwise direction (look for the next exam station when you are at a rest station). Ask the invigilator for assistance if you are unsure.

12. You have 3 minutes reading time outside of the room before entering each ‘active’ station. Ensure that you read the instructions carefully. You are allowed to write notes during the reading time and take them into the station with you. This is optional if you find it helpful (i.e. it is not a requirement that you write notes during the reading time). Do not do anything less or anything more than what is instructed. Enter the room when the buzzer rings.

13. When you enter the room, give your ID sticker(s) to the examiner(s) . You do not need to introduce yourself to the examiner.

14. There will be an examiner in the room, and on occasions, an additional examiner may be present.

15. In many (but not all) stations, you will be stopped by the examiner or the patient at a specific time and asked additional questions. Stop what you are doing, taking care to ensure the safety of the patient and/or yourself, and move on to the next task as instructed. You are allowed to ask the examiner to repeat the question if needed.

16. The buzzer will go off at 10 minutes. This marks the end of the station, and you must leave the room. The examiners have been instructed to ignore anything you say or do once the buzzer rings. You must remain inside the room until the buzzer goes off, even if you have completed the tasks early. Hand any notes to the examiner and ensure you have your stickers with you before you move to the next station.

17. Alcohol hand rub/gel are provided in the 'active' stations. You must use them to clean your hands before and after each patient interaction. The examiners will instruct you to do so even after the buzzer has gone off.

18. At examination stations, it is not professional to leave the patient exposed when the buzzer rings and dash out of the room. You are expected to behave professionally regardless of whether you are in an exam. All patients in the OSCE are to be regarded as real patients, irrespective of whether they are actors, volunteers or 'real' patients. Ask the patient if they require assistance to cover up, thank them briefly and apply alcohol gel to your hands before leaving the room.

19. Please remember to take your ID stickers with you. If you come out of the room and realise that you have left your barcode stickers inside the room, ask one of the invigilators to assist. Do not go back in the room to retrieve them.

20. If a torch or other equipment is needed, it will be provided inside the station.
21. No notes or paper are to be removed from the exam rooms. If notes or paper are removed, this will be considered academic misconduct.
22. Once you have completed your examination (or post-exam quarantine period), please leave campus promptly to allow the next session to proceed smoothly.

Best of luck for your preparation for the examinations,

The Assessment Team
